THE DATE OF THE FOUNDING OF SALEM.

A LETTER ADDRESSED TO THE GOVERNOR OF MASSACHUSETTS; TO WHICH IS ADDED A NOTE BY THE WRITER.

SALEM, June 28, 1901.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY, W. MURRAY CRANE,
Governor of the Commonwealth.

My Dear Sir:—

On July 6, 1896, the statement contained in the Manual of the General Court for that year, as ociating with the origin of Salem the date "August 23, 1630," was brought to the attention of the Essex Institute and it was voted to address the Governor in reference to the matter.

The delay which has occurred in acting upon this vote is due in part to efforts made from time to time to procure from various State officials a modification of the statement annually put forth by the Commonwealth. That object has not been fully accomplished, but I should hardly venture now to intrude upon your Excellency's time, burthened as it is with matters of pressing moment, had I not some assurance that antiquarian questions have an interest for your Excellency, and that you are in sympathy with the view that a date which is of importance enough to be stated at all should be stated correctly. The statement put forth in the Manual for the last ten years, unless more carefully explained and guarded than has been the case, seems likely to lead to misconception. I do not think that, according to any fair construction of terms, August 23, 1630, is either the date on which Salem was established or incorporated, or on which Salem is first mentioned in the Records of the State, or is therein first recorded as established or incorporated. Just what is meant by the words "established" and "incorporated," as applied in the Manual to a settlement so old as Salem, does not appear, nor does it appear just what is meant by "Records of the State." The treatment of Plymouth in the Manual would seem to show that the record quoted need not be the record of a specific event made at the time the event occurred.* We are not told whether the date, August 23, 1630, is the date of "first mention in the Records" or the date of "establishment" or the date of "incorporation." It would seem that the date chosen for commemoration, out of these three classes of dates included in the Manual, should be the earliest date of the three which can be substantiated. The history of pioneer settlements, in other parts of the country, is jealously cherished by the antiquary and the historian, and founders of States are held up, the world over, to honor and esteem. Lord Bacon has put them at the very head of the list. "The true marshalling of the Degrees of Sovereign Honor are these. In the first place are founders of States and Commonwealths." Should not the few pioneer settlements of the dominant race on the broad domain of this Continent be protected in every claim to lasting remembrance and regard? Looked at from this point of view, St. Augustine, Jamestown, Plymouth, Salem, become names of national rather than of local import.

On June 11, 1679 (Records of Massachusetts Vol. V. p. 279,) the General Court enacted as follows: "This Court, being informed that Mr Wm Hubbard hath taken paynes in compiling a history of New England, doe order, that our honored Gounor & Wm Stoughton, Esquire, Capt Daniel Fisher, Lieut Wm Johnson, & Capt Wm

*See a note at the end of this Letter on page 210.

Torrey be a comittee to pervse the same, & make returne of their opinion thereof to the next session that the Court may then, as they shall then judge meete, take order for the impression thereof."

On Oct. 11, 1682 (Records of Massachusetts Vol. V. page 378) the General Court enacted as follows: "Whereas it hath binn thought necessary, & a duty incumbent vpon vs, to take due notice of all occurrances & passages of Gods providence towards the people of this jurisdiction since their first arrivall in these parts, which may remajne to posterity, and that the Reuerand Mr Willjam Hubbard hath taken paynes to compile a history of this nature, wch the Court doeth with thankefullnes acknowledge; and, as a manifestacon * thereof, doe hereby order the Treasurer to pay vnto him the some of fiuety pounds in money, he transcribing it fairely into a booke, that it may be the more easely pervsed, in order to the satisfaction of this Court."

On March 30, 1683 (Records of Massachusetts Vol. V. page 394) the General Court enacted as follows: "This Court hauing formerly granted ffifty pounds to ye Reu Mr Wm Hubbard in consideration of his pajne in collecting a history of the first planting & setling of this colony, as in October last, for 50 ^li^, it is ordered that the Treasurer pay him or his order halfe of the sajd sume as soone as money comes into his hands."

On June 11, 1814 (Massachusetts Resolves 1812-1815. Chapter XXXVII page 519,) the General Court passed the following: "Resolve on the application of the Historical Society, providing for the purchase of 600 copies of Hubbard's History. 11th June 1814.

"Upon the petition of C. Gore, William Spooner and James Savage, Esquires, in behalf of the Historical Society.

"Resolved, For the reasons set forth in the said petition that the Legislature will take six hundred copies of Hubbard's General History of New England to be published by the said Society, to consist of one volume; and will pay the said Society two dollars for each volume, printed on good paper and well bound; and the Governor is hereby authorised to draw his warrant upon the Treasury for the same, upon the delivery of the books to the Secretary of the Commonwealth; and that one copy of said work shall be sent to the Clerk of each town in the Commonwealth for the use of the inhabitants thereof, and the residue shall remain at the disposal of the Legislature."

The Rev. William Hubbard was the minister settled at Ipswich, and was, as Dr. Felt, quoting the Rev. John Eliot, says, "for many years the most eminent minister in the County of Essex, equal to any in the Province for learning and candor, and superior to all his contemporaries as a writer." He was also the close personal friend of Roger Conant. Speaking, in his history, thus printed and distributed at the cost of the Commonwealth, of the Plymouth Settlers who removed thence to Cape Ann, he says:

"A door was opened for them at Cape Anne, a place on the other side of the Bay, whither they removed about the year 1625. After they had another short trial there, of about a year's continuance, they removed a third time a little lower towards the bottom of the Bay, being invited by the accommodations which they either saw or hoped to find on the other side of a creek near by, called Naumkeag, which afforded a considerable quantity of planting land near adjoining thereto. Here they took up their station upon a pleasant and fruitful neck of land, invironed with an arm of the sea on each side, in either of which vessels and ships of good burthen might safely anchor. In this place (soon after, by a minister that came with a company of honest planters, called Salem, from that in Psalm LXXVI, 2) was laid the first foundation on which the next colonies were built." (Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, 2nd. series, Vol. V. p. 102.)

This seems to stamp the authority of the Commonwealth upon the statement that Naumkeag and Salem were two names for the same settlement and that this settlement was effected about 1626.

But fortunately we have the final authority of Governor William Bradford, who came to Plymouth in the Mayflower, became Governor in 1621, and for a generation held the office of Governor. On his arrival he began collecting material for history. He thought, writing in 1646, that he began to record his Annals about the year 1630. Shurtleff (Plymouth Colony Records, published by the State, Vol. I, preface, vii) puts the date at 1627. No chapter in the Annals of New England has had such an indorsement as the chapter written by Governor Bradford. The manuscript, after an unexplained sequestration of more than a century, has just been restored to this Commonwealth with a degree of pomp and circumstance never perhaps accorded to human utterance in modern times, and now reposes at the State House, guarded against deterioration, fire and theft, with ingenious measures of protection beyond which the resources of modern science have not advanced.

In 1860, the Hon. Robert C. Winthrop regarded this volume as so precious a heritage that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, then on his way to Massachusetts, seemed to him to be the fit custodian to bring it from London and preside over its restoration to this Commonwealth. (See "The Bradford History" printed and distributed by the Commonwealth, 1898, page xliv) When it was restored, the consent of the Primate of all England was required, and that functionary found it proper to consult her Majesty, the Queen. (page xlix)

May 22, 1897, his Excellency Governor Wolcott called a joint Convention of the Massachusetts Legislature to accept the Bradford History from the hands of ex-Ambassador Bayard, lately returned from the Court of St. James, the manuscript having been ordered by the Consistory Court of the Diocese of London to be returned through Mr. Bayard to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, although its return had previously been several times refused on the ground that an Act of Parliament was necessary. The Convention was held May 26; the manuscript was accepted; addresses were made by the senior Senator of Massachusetts, by his Excellency, and by ex-Ambassador Bayard; the publication and distribution of the History by the Commonwealth was provided for; and the thanks of the Commonwealth were duly returned to the Arch-Bishop of Canterbury and to the Lord Bishop of London.

Senator Hoar, on the acceptance of the volume by the Governor, spoke of it (page xxxix) as "the only authentic history of the founding of their Commonwealth; the only authentic history of what we have a right to consider the most important political transaction that has ever taken place on the face of the earth." He also said (p. xlix) "If there were in existence in England a history of King Alfred's reign for thirty years, written by his own hand, it would not be more precious in the eyes of Englishmen than this manuscript is to us." And he added "Wherever it shall go it will be an object of reverent care. I do not think many Americans will gaze upon it without a little trembling of the lips and a little gathering of mist in the eyes, as they think of the story * * * which that book tells,—which the hand of the great leader and founder of America has traced on those pages. There is nothing like it in human annals since the story of Bethlehem." (p. lv) "When I went abroad," said the Senator, "I determined to visit the locality * * * from which Bradford and Brewster and Robinson came, and where their first church was formed * * * but I longed especially to see the manuscript of Bradford at Fulham, which then seemed to me, as it now seems to me, the most precious manuscript on earth, unless we could recover one of the four Gospels as it came in the beginning from the pen of the Evangelist. (p. xlvi). Addressing Mr. Bayard the Senator said (p. liv), "You are entitled, Sir, to the gratitude of Massachusetts, to the gratitude of every lover of Massachusetts, and of every lover of the country." And he closed his address with these words (p. lvi) "Of all these things this is the original record by the hand of our beloved father and founder. Massachusetts will preserve it until the time shall come that her children are unworthy of it; and that time shall come,—never."

In his chronicle of the year 1625, extending, according to the calendar of that day from March 25, A. D. 1625 to March 25 A. D. 1626, as we reckon, Governor Bradford, speaking of Lyford, says, (p. 237) "From thence he removed to Namkeke, since called Salem."

In his account of the year 1628 (p. 286) Governor Bradford chronicles the troubles with Morton at Merry

Mount, and says, "Shortly after came over that worthy gentleman, M^{r}. John Indecott, who brought over a patent under ye broad seall, for ye governmente of ye Massachusetts, who visiting those parts caused y^{t} May-polle to be cutt downe, and rebuked them for their profannes." And it appears that (p. 289) "Those that joyned in this action against Morton were from Pascataway, Namkeake, Winisimett," etc. They of Plymouth were suing the King, before March 19, 1628/9 (pp. 300-1) to make them "a corporation, and so inable them to make & execute lawes, in such large & ample maner as ye Massachusett plantation hath it."

From his account of the year 1629 (pp. 295-297.) it appears that a party of "35 Leyden people" came over in May, 1629, and "had passage with ye ships that came to Salem, and brought over many Godly persons to begin ye plantations & churches of Christ ther, & in ye Bay of Massachusetts, and arrived here aboute August." They were charged for their "fetching hither from Salem & ye Bay, wher they and their goods were landed."

And (pp. 314, 5, 6, 7.) "it was before noted that sundry of those that came from Leyden, came over in the ships y^{t} came to Salem, wher M^{r}. Endecott had cheefe comand." And (pp. 330-1) Governor Bradford received a letter from Governor Endecott, dated Naumkeak, May 11. ano. 1629, thanking him for previous favors and discussing church polity, and another from Charles Gott, dated at Salem July 30, 1629, detailing, "ther proceedings in their church affaires at Salem, which was ye 2. church erected in these parts." Governor Bradford, as early as Sept. 6, 1629, was writing to James Sherley, and dating his letter from Salem. And the letter-book shows that soon after May 11, 1629, "the Lord sent unto us many Godly persons into the land: these began to pitch at Naumkeak, since called by them Salem, to which place was come in the latter end of summer before, a worthy gentleman, Mr. John Endecott by name, and some others with him, to make some preparation for the rest."

Governor Winthrop, who reached Salem in June, 1630, speaks of the place in his journal, on June 12, as Nahumkeck, but on June 17, on July 2, and on July 7, as Salem.

In the Records of Massachusetts, Vol. I, page 25, under date of February 23, 1628/9, appears this entry: "This day delivered a warrant * * * to pay * * * one hundred pounds, in pte of the ffreight of the * * * Heneri Gawden Mr. from Waimouth to Nahumkeke, the goods shipt * * of lading dated 20 June last, beeing p. bill of ladinge 46 1/2 tons of * * * besyds ye chardge of Capten John Endecott, his wiffe and * * psons * * his company, theire passage & dyett." Your Excellency will find the portion of the Records of Massachusetts printed in 1853 by order of the Legislature (Vol. I, pages 37-70, and pages 361-5 and pages 383-409) entirely unintelligible, except for the key furnished by the existence of the Settlement maintained at Salem between February, 1628/9 and March 1629/30.

The Report of the State Census of 1865 declared that Salem was incorporated in 1629. That of the Census of 1875 and of 1885 give the date of incorporation as June 24, 1629. That of 1895 throws more light upon the matter and states that Naumkeag is mentioned in 1628,—that Conant built the first house there in 1626,—that Endecott landed there in 1628,—and that Salem appears by its present name, August 23, 1630. In the Manual for 1901, which states that the table of dates is prepared by the Commissioner of Public Records, a slightly different designation of the list of dates from that before in use is given, and the date, August 23, 1630, is placed against the name of Salem. On that day Salem is described in the Manual for 1901 as "first mentioned in Records of the State or therein recorded as established or incorporated." I hope I have been able to show, upon evidence of the highest recognized authority, promulgated in the name and under the Seal of the Commonwealth, and accepted by every historical student, that August 23, 1630, is neither the date of the settlement nor of the establishment nor of the incorporation of the place known to history as Salem, nor of its first mention in the Records of the State.

For upwards of forty years it has been the practice of the General Court to issue a yearly Manual, containing, in addition to the list of officers for the year, and a variety of useful facts, "other statistical information." Beginning with the year 1871, it has been the practice to include, in this statistical information, a table giving some facts in the history of each of the cities and towns of the Commonwealth. From 1871 until 1891, the date of the incorporation of Salem was stated in this table as June 24, 1629, and the Indian name of Salem as Naumkeage or Naumkeake. The authority quoted for this information was a State Document entitled " Abstract of Census of 1860 " (see page 222) and this authority was accepted for twenty years. The Manual for 1892 makes a new departure. It quotes, as its authority, the Report of the Commissioner of Public Records for 1885, and introduces a list of dates entitled " date of Establishment or Incorporation, or First Mentioned in the Records." For ten years this plan was adhered to, but without indicating which of the three possible dates was the date given. Under this system the date assigned to Salem was August 23, 1630.

If the phrase " first mentioned in State Records " were held to mean records made at the time of the events recorded, that rule when applied to the earlier settlements would put them at an obvious disadvantage as compared with the later, because it is the early records of the Colony which are mostly missing. Thus the Pioneers, whose courageous enterprise is uniformly held to constitute a claim on the gratitude of their posterity, would suffer most from the losses and ravages of time.

The need of a more careful wording of the statement promulgated yearly in the Manual of the General Court seems to be the more imperative because the Manual suggests an apparent conflict between the historical accuracy of the City and that of the State. For more than sixty years, Salem has used a municipal seal bearing on its face a date other and earlier than 1630, as the date of its origin. I think your Excellency will be interested to avoid, if possible, even the semblance of a clash of this kind between the Commonwealth you so honorably represent and its second oldest settlement,—a settlement which has, more than once, been called on to be the seat of its Colonial or Provincial authority.

I am, very respectfully yours,

[Signed] ROBERT S. RANTOUL.

A NOTE TO

See ante, page 202.

Should this letter ever possess interest enough to be published, the reference it contains to the founding of Plymouth ought to be developed a little further. I suppose no one would have the hardihood to print, over the seal of this Commonwealth, a statement associating the founding of Plymouth with any date later than 1620. Accordingly, when the ill-conceived plan was adopted of allowing no dates for the foundation of towns to appear in the Manual of the General Court which are not found in the State Archives, a difficulty was at once encountered. Dr. Shurtleff, an accomplished antiquary and historian,—a member of various learned societies and Mayor of Boston for the years 1868, 1869 and 1870, had been employed by the Commonwealth in the years 1855, 1856 and 1857, to edit and see through the press the Plymouth Colony Records, and had stated in his prefatory chapter that no contemporaneous Plymouth Records existed bearing an earlier date than 1627 (See Plymouth Colony Records vol. I, p. vii.). The plan of relying exclusively on existing contemporary records must therefore be abandoned as to Plymouth. To print in a State publication the word "Plymouth" with the figures "1627" after it would have operated like lightning in a powder-mill. An exception had to be made, but the fact is not noted in the Manual. The same course was pursued which would have been necessary had a mouse, or a book-worm, or a drop of acid, or a lighted match, or an ink-blot effaced or eaten out from the contemporary records still preserved at the State House the date of some one of our earlier settlements. Evidence must be sought and found aliunde.

For some years the accepted date, "December 22, 1620," was inserted without comment. Then, in the issue of 1892, "December 22" was dropped, and apparently, upon the strength of a conjecture of David Pulsifer, an employee in the office of the Secretary of State, who was entrusted with completing the work of Dr. Shurtleff and who saw the last volumes through the press,—this conjecture was printed at that time,—it was assumed that, although no contemporary record existed at the State House of a landing, on December 22, it was probable that some part of the early Plymouth Records were written at some time during the year 1620. This is the familiar process of reasoning in a circle. If any part of the Plymouth Records bore date "1620," Plymouth must have been settled as early as that year. So the date "1620,"—sacred throughout the civilized world,—was not tampered with. It was very properly retained, but no day or month of the year 1620 could be assigned to the settlement of Plymouth on contemporary evidence to be found at the State House, because no contemporary account of the settlement of Plymouth in that year is to be found at the State House. In the case of every other settlement of importance in the state month and day are given.

The value of Mr. Pulsifer's conjecture (Deeds 1620-1651 Vol. I, pp. iii-iv,—see Plymouth Colony Records. vol. XII.) as placed against Dr. Shurtleff's distinct assertion (see vol. I. p. vii.) I do not know. But if Mr. Pulsifer is a better witness as to the history of one part of the Commonwealth than as to that of another, his evidence is the best as to Essex County, where he was born and grew up, residing at Ipswich and at Salem and employed on the local records in both places for years until, in 1841, he was engaged at the State House in the office of the Secretary of State, remaining there until 1882. In 1860 and in 1865 he furnished the Secretary of State, for his census report of those years, with a tabular statement of the dates of the settlement of towns in Massachusetts. In this he adopted, for the date of the founding of Salem, the date of the change of name from Naumkeag to Salem, which change occurred on the arrival of Higginson, June 24, 1629. (See Census of Massachusetts for 1860, p. 222, and in 1865 p. 173.) No fact in local history is better established or more familiar to the general reader than that Salem was an important factor in the government of this Colony before August, 1630, and if it comports with the official sense of fitness in the Commonwealth to ignore the familiar fact in its published documents, a full explanation should accompany in every instance so misleading a statement.

GRAND TURK, ship, 564 tons, Salem, 1791. Reg. Mar. 1, 1792. Elias H. Derby, owner; Benjamin Hodges, master.

[The name "Grand Turk" is one of the most famous in the annals of Salem shipping. There were at least three vessels of that name.

(1) The ship "Grand Turk" of 300 tons built at the South Shore for a privateer in 1781 for Elias Haskett Derby. She made at least one voyage as such, as she is said by Mr. Leavitt, to have captured the "Pompey," which later became the "America," first of the name. After the Revolution, in Nov., 1784, this "Grand Turk" was sent by Mr. Derby to the Cape of Good Hope. This was probably the most distant voyage made from Salem up to that time. Soon after her return on Nov. 28, 1785, the "Grand Turk" cleared for the Isle of France, and touching at that place pushed on to Canton, being the first vessel from New England to visit China. She left Salem again in Dec., 1787 and went to the Isle of France, where she was sold in 1788. Being sold before 1789, the first "Grand Turk" does not appear in the foregoing list. At the Peabody Academy of Science, there is a punch bowl brought from Canton in 1786, commemorative of the voyage. On the side and in the center of this bowl are representations of the ship with the inscription "Ship Grand Turk at Canton 1786."

(2) The ship "Grand Turk" of 564 tons built at Salem in 1791 for Elias Hasket Derby. This was the first vessel to be built in Salem by the famous ship builder, Enos Briggs, who came here to build this ship and finally brought his family and settled in Salem permanently. This is the vessel registered in the list above. She made several successful voyages. I do not know her ultimate fate, but she seems to have disappeared before 1800, as no mention of her occurs later. There are no pictures or models of her in the collections in Salem but her dimensions are given in full, in Leavitt, "Materials for History of Salem Ship Building," Essex Inst. Hist. Colls. VI, 226.

(3) The brig or brigantine "Grand Turk" of 309 tons built at Wiscasset, Me., in 1812. This vessel was a celebrated privateer in the War of 1812, carrying eighteen guns and about one hundred and fifty men. Singularly enough this vessel although officered by Salem men and sailing in and out of Salem repeatedly, appears not to have been permanently registered here. Probably she was owned in Boston. A copy of her journal however was sworn to before the collector at Salem, and June 3, 1815, she took out a temporary document here in which William Gray and Thomas Webb of Boston appear as owners. After the war she appears to have made merchant voyages for William Gray of Boston. For an excellent account of her privateering voyages see MacClay, "Hist. of Amer. Privateers," pp. 391-400. MacClay however falls into the singular error of failing to discover that there were three distinct vessels named "Grand Turk" and attributes the adventures of all to one vessel. Thus he makes the privateer of 1812 to have been over thirty years old when she made her escape from the British frigates. Marvin in "The American Merchant Marine" falls into the same error. I know of no pictures or models of the privateer brig.

Besides the various accounts mentioned above, there are references to the voyages of the three vessels in the "Hist. of Essex County." I, 82, 109 (to the first); I, 107 (to the second); and I, 195, 211, (to the third); also in the "Historical Sketch of Salem," pp. 130, 214 and 223; and Leavitt, "Private Armed Vessels During the War of 1812," Essex Inst. Hist. Colls. II, 57.]

THOMAS GARDNER, PLANTER, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

BY FRANK A. GARDNER, M. D.

REAL ESTATE.

Joseph Gardner bought of John Gardner (No. 110) Aug. 20, 1792, portions of a house, with bakehouse and land, on the southern side of Bridge street, west of Pleasant street.* He paid £120 for the property, and mortgaged it to the grantor for a like amount. This mortgage was discharged Sept. 12, 1797.† He mortgaged certain parts of the house with the furniture, to Abigail Berry, July 4, 1794,‡ and redeemed the property Sept. 12, 1797.§ On the following day he purchased the remainder of the property of William Obear for $1250,‖ and mortgaged it to Thomas Hovey‖ and John Gardner.¶ These were cancelled March 27, 1801, together with another mortgage in favor of Eunice Richardson dated June 12, 1798. He conveyed "certain parts" of the dwelling house to Charles Collins, Sept. 14, 1797, for $240.†† Small lots on the eastern end of this estate fronting on Pleasant street were sold by him in 1799 and 1801.‡‡

He offered for sale the house, barn, bakehouse and other buildings, Mar. 26, 1801,§§ and on the 27th of the same month deeded the property to John Melville of Marblehead for $2025.‖‖ The land thus sold included in addition to the purchases above mentioned, several small lots which he had purchased of Cornelius Bartlett, Josiah Dodge and Thomas Buxton in 1797.* In the Salem Gazette of March 17, 1801, he announced that he would move to his new dwelling house on March street, where he intended "carrying on the Bakery buſineſs, &c as uſual."

He had purchased in 1800 and 1801, of the heirs of Dudley Woodbridge and Stephen Phillips, two lots, one containing 116 3-4 poles, and the other 2 acres and 19 1-2 poles of land on the eastern side of what is now March street.† April 17, 1801, he bought an additional lot of 125 3-4 poles bounding this on the northwest, having previously purchased the land still further northwest to the North River. The northernmost lot, with a frontage of 110 feet on March street, he sold to Aaron Waite, Jerathaniel Pierce and Israel Williams, April 16, 1801, for $200.‡ The three lots next south of the last named, measuring in all 180 feet on March street, he mortgaged April 27, 1801, to John Osgood for $400. This was discharged, July 3, 1804.§ Joseph's house was located on the northern portion of this last named group, and had a frontage of 80 feet on March street. He mortgaged this homestead lot to Jesse Richardson in 1813,‖ to Benjamin Cheever in 1814,¶ to Brackley Rose in 1817, to Temple Hardy†† and Samuel Gardner in 1821.‡‡ He sold a narrow strip (7 feet wide) to Thomas Gwinn, June 3, 1829.§§ This lot was assigned to Thorndike Deland, May 9, 1829,§§ who sold it to Joseph's son Simon, Jan. 2, 1830.‖‖

Next south of the homestead lot was one measuring 30 feet front and 157 feet deep, which he sold to Thomas Tate, May 9, 1807, for $700.¶¶ South of this was a way

25 feet wide known as Gardner's Court, now known as March Street Court, which was laid out about 1805.* The lot south of this measuring 41 feet, 6 inches front, and 290 feet deep, he sold to Augustus Converse June 12, 1805, for $700.* The next lot, the last of Joseph Gardner's holdings fronting on March street, measured 120 feet front, and 295 feet in depth. He mortgaged it to John Osgood July 10, 1802, (discharged July 3, 1804,)† and sold it July 2, 1804, to Augustus Converse for $817.37.‡

He sold land bordering on Gardner's court to Jonathan Smith, Jesse Richardson, William Dodge, Mary Dowbridge wife of Andrew, Caleb M. Ames and Temple Hardy. One of the lots sold to Jesse Richardson and the one sold to William Dodge he repurchased.§ He offered for sale in the Salem Gazette, March 13, 1807, two dwelling houses, a store and two other house lots in March street.

April 21, 1797, he bought of Henry Williams, a lot of land on the western side of Williams street, extending down to the North River flats, paying £8, 12 shill. for the same.‖ This lot measured 158 feet on the street. The northern end of the lot, measuring 105 feet, 6 inches on the street, he sold to Josiah Richardson in May, 1797, for £21, 9 shill.,¶ and the remainder of the lot with dwelling house, he sold to Walter Price Bartlett, April 12, 1798, for $720.¶

He bought of B. Lamson, of Beverly, Nov. 10, 1818, four and one half acres of land at Snake Hill Pasture, Montserrat, Beverly. During the next two years he bought many cow rights in this pasture and when he transferred his holdings to his brother Samuel, March 23, 1821, he owned 9-14 of the property.†† He regained possession of this land by purchase from his brother, Jan. 31,

1823, buying in addition one share which Samuel had bought of a third party.* He mortgaged his ten rights in the pasture to Caleb Smith, Mar. 21, 1823,* and in 1827 (Oct. 15) again mortgaged his "sixty-four acres and one hundred and four rods in Snake Hill Proprietary" to John S. Felton of Danvers, for $400,† and Joseph Gardner's assignee, Thorndike Deland sold his right to the property to said Felton, Aug. 12, 1829.‡

He bought a triangular piece of land in Beverly, near the bridge, of Edward Ford, March 11, 1828, and sold the same in the following June (15th) to the town of Beverly.§ A lot of marsh land at "Royal side" measuring three quarters of an acre, and a mud wharf in the same locality, were mentioned in the list of lots assigned to Thorndike Deland. They were sold Aug. 12, 1829, to John S. Felton, of Danvers.‖

He owned several other lots which he sold during his life, including the following:—a house and lot on the margin of Collins' Cove;¶ a lot with buildings thereon, between Federal street and the North River; one third part of the western end of the mansion house of Robert Peele which he bought of Charles Gowen April 27, 1812,†† and sold to Thomas Needham; and other real estate transactions of minor importance.

Joseph Gardner married at Salem, December 10, 1789, Elizabeth Bell, daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth (Peele) Bell.‡‡ She died in October, 1831, and was buried "from her late residence on Bridge Street."§§ He died in November, 1830, and was buried from "his late residence in March street." Salem, Oct. 7, 1867, N. Augusta Barr, widow of Robert Putnam Barr, and dau. of Benjamin F. and Eunice P. (Boardman) Rogers. He was in the grocery business in company with his brother Thomas N. Gardner at No. 20 Front street as early as 1855. From 1859 until 1874 he was a member of the firm of M. C. Reynolds & Co., at the same place. About 1878 he removed his business to 127 Washington street, where he continued until his death. He was a member of the Common Council in 1880 and 1883, and served on the Water Board from 1886 to 1888 inclusive. He resided most of his life at what was then numbered 65 Lafayette street. 4. Kelley,* s. of Samuel W. and Elizabeth W. (Goodell) Kelley of Danvers. He was b. Danvers, Jan. 16, 1852. He was admitted to the Essex Bar, in March, 1874, and practiced law in Salem until 1880, when he moved to Boston. He is at present actively engaged in the practice of his profession in that city.

Daniel B. Gardner was a grocer at 33 Bridge street as early as 1837, (living at that time in Gardner's court off March street). Later (1842) he conducted a clothing store at 110 Derby street, living at number 114. About 1850 he opened a place at 14 Front street as a wholesale grocer. He continued in business here for many years, residing at 4 Barton square. He owned land on Gardner's court which he sold in 1832 to P. L. Wiggin,† and a house and lot on the corner of Bridge and Pearl streets which was conveyed by him to Samuel Gardner jr. (No. 335). Feb. 5, 1839.‡ June 3, 1844 he bought of Philip Chase, a lot of land on the south side of Derby street, which he sold to S. G. Wheatland, Sept. 16, 1846.§ He purchased his Front street property of David Pingree, May 1, 1847.‖ Another important land holding of his was the estate on the N. W. corner of Washington and Norman streets, which he and Joseph Gardner 3d, (son of No. 331) purchased of Thomas Frye and Dorcas Smith in October, 1847, with the three old buildings still standing upon it. The purchasers raised the buildings and put a lower story of brick under all. The place was then used as a hotel.¶ The property on the S. W. corner of Bridge and Osgood streets was also owned by him at one time. He loaned large amounts on Mortgages.†† He was a good friend, genial acquaintance and very benevolent. He was quite a wit and at one time when March street was in bad con-

Benjamin Franklin Gardner graduated from the Phillips Grammar school in Salem, and finished his preliminary education at Master Leavitt's Latin Grammar School. He left Salem, March 6, 1855, for Chapel Hill, Texas, where he resided three years. Later he read medicine with Dr. Paul H. Otey, a distinguished surgeon. He graduated at the Medical College of Virginia in 1862 and was appointed surgeon P. A. C. S. and served at the Howard Grove Hospital, Richmond, Va.; at Murfreesboro, Shelbyville, Tullahoma, Chickamauga, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Dalton, Ringold and Atlanta, Ga. Shortly before the close of the war he was transferred to Raleigh, N. C. He remained there in private practice for two years, when he was appointed surgeon-in-chief of the Alabama and Chattanooga R. R. This position he held until he resigned it to take up private practice at Bloomsburg, Pa. He has been very successful as a physician and surgeon. "Biographical Sketches of Leading Citizens of the 17th Congressional District of Penna." refers to him as "a man of wonderful nerve and superior judgment, and his coolness in the most trying cases inspires confidence in his patients. He is widely known through the eastern part of the state and is often called to great distances to perform operations." He is a member of the American Medical Association and the State Medical Societies of North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. 2. Frances Ellen, b. Salem, Aug. 31, 1837.† Unmarried. Mass. Vol., May 22, 1861, as a private. He was in the battles of Cedar Mountain, Thoroughfare Gap, Rappahannock and the second battle of Bull Run. In the last named engagement he was severely wounded, and laid for fourteen days on the battlefield before he was taken to Fairfax Seminary Hospital, where his foot was amputated. A second amputation was performed at the Seventh Street Hospital in Washington. He was discharged July 11, 1863, on account of these wounds. He is at present the City Messenger of Salem, and a member of Phil Sheridan Post 34, G. A. R., Dep't of Mass. 4. Simon Warren, b. abt. Jan., 1840;* d. June 4, 1840, aged 5 mos.* 5. Harriet Newell, b. Pope started to learn the curriers' trade after leaving school, but soon after he was twenty-one he went to Indianapolis, Indiana, and entered his uncle's drug store. Later he read medicine with Dr. Charles Neilson of Madison, Ind., and then attended a medical college in Cincinnati, Ohio. After receiving his diploma he returned to Madison and practiced medicine. He enlisted, Sept. 1, 1861, at Indianapolis, Ind. in Co. B., 6th Reg't, Indiana Volunteers, for three years. In 1862 he was appointed Ass't Surgeon of the 54th Reg't of Indiana, in the Army of the Cumberland and Mississippi. He was in the battles of Jackson, Big Black River, Port Gibson, Shiloh, Champion Hill and Thomaston. At hospital No. 9, Raymond, Miss., he had charge when the place was captured by a confederate squad and all of his sick and wounded were marched off. General Pemberton rode up to Dr. Pope and asked if any of his men had been there, adding,—"I hope they have made no trouble for you doctor?" The general asked if he could do anything for him and Dr. Pope requested that he give an order for the return of all who were unable to walk a quarter of a mile. This request was granted and in trying to relieve the injured, Dr. Pope was knocked down an embankment by a Confederate cavalry horse and severely injured. The other surgeons having run away, he worked days and nights for the relief of his sick and wounded. He was mustered out at the expiration of his term of service and returned to Salem in 1866.† The writer wishes to express his sincere appreciation of the very valuable service rendered by Mrs. Pope, in collecting many dates and facts relating to the descendants of her grandfather, Joseph Gardner. 6. Simon Wesley, b. Jan. 6, 1844; d. at Chapel Hill, Texas, in 1868, of yellow fever.* He attended the Phillips School and Master Leavitt's Latin School in Salem and in 1859 removed to Texas where he was an agent in the drug business, travelling all through Texas and in the adjoining states. Later he bought out the business and erected a five story business block exclusively for pharmaceutical goods. He continued in this business until the middle of 1862, when he was conscripted into the Confederate army. Refusing to serve, he was put in prison and kept there off and on until the close of the war. In a yellow fever epidemic at Chapel Hill, Texas, he took care of three of his partners, their wives and children and another friend. Later he took the disease and died.* 7. Horace Bell, b. Vol., but was discharged as he was under age. Mar. 17, 1862, he was mustered into Co. M, 14th Reg't, Mass. Vol. (Afterwards the First Reg't, Mass. Heavy Artillery.) He was in the battles of North Anna, Nice River, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor and before Petersburg 18 days. He was severely wounded June 18, 1864 and left for dead on the field. The ball went through both cheeks cutting the tongue into five pieces.* He was left for dead on the field and was without food for several days and nights, and when brought to the hospital was fed through a glass tube, as he was unable to swallow. While lying on his hospital cot in this exhausted condition, he called for paper and a pencil and wrote "'Rally Round the Flag, Boys', sing it." One who described the scene said that every time they came to the chorus, Gardner would wave his hand over that poor bleeding, mutilated face, his eyes telling the joy his lips were speechless to express. As a result of this wound his speech has been imperfect since the war. He was discharged for disability Nov. 28, 1864. He is a member of Phil Sheridan Post, No. 34, G. A. R. of Mass. After the war he was a baker for many years, but since 1890 he has worked much of the time as a

He was in the battles of Spottsylvania, North Anna, Salem Church, Tolopotomy and Cold Harbor. In the latter battle he was taken prisoner and carried to Libby Prison, where he was confined until June 15, when he was transferred to Andersonville, Ga. He was in Andersonville until Oct. 15, Milan until Nov. 19, Blackshire Hill until Dec. 2, back to Andersonville until Mar. 26, 1865. He was taken to Vicksburg, thence to St. Louis and finally to Boston, where he was discharged May 17, 1865. After the war he returned to Salem, and went to sea in 1867. He was cast away in the Indian Ocean and was picked up by an English Man-o-War, The Highflyer, landed at Zanzibar, and brought home in the barque Hazard, owned by Henry Gardner, of Salem. (No. 238.) He afterwards made three voyages to South America in the same vessel. He learned the baker's trade of his father and worked as a baker in Salem from 1871 until 1892, when he removed to Marblehead. He carried on the baking business in that town at No. 227 Washington street until he retired in 1902.* He joined Phil Sheridan Post No. 34, G. A. ENGLISH NOTES ABOUT EARLY SETTLERS IN NEW ENGLAND.

Communicated by Lothrop Withington, 30 Little Russell Street, W. C., London (including "Gleanings" by Henry Fitz Gilbert Waters, not before printed.)

Richard Norton of Mitcham, Surrey, Esq. 10 August 1686; proved 23 September 1686. I have settled upon my dear and loving wife Anne my manor of Barton and sundry lands and tenements in the County of Bedford for life. I am a freeman of the city of London. I give my annual rent or rent charge of sixteen pounds coming out of the Manor of Sharpenhoe in Bedford to my son John; ten pounds thereof to be disposed for and towards the maintenance of a free school at Sharpenhoe, for eight poor children, four to be of Sharpenhoe and four of Streatley. The remaining six pounds thereof to be paid by the said John Norton to my wife Anne, his mother. Five hundred pounds apiece to be paid to my daughters Mary and Katherine Norton at their respective ages of twenty one years. My manors, messuages, &c., in Barton, Sharpenhoe, Streatley, Farly, Whipperly, Luton, Bedford, Westning or elsewhere in said county of Bedford. My messuages in Cornhill, London, settled upon my son John as my heir male. Money laid out in rebuilding them.

I give to my daughter Anne, whom I have preferred in marriage, ten pounds and to her husband Mr. Bezaleel Sherman ten pounds, to buy them mourning. Similar bequests to daughter Ellen and her husband Mr. Edward Fisher. To son Richard, at age of four and twenty (certain manors, &c.) in Yorkshire. A portion to be provided for my daughter Dorothy Norton at her age of twenty and one years. A provisional bequest to three grandchildren, Norton, Anne, and Elizabeth Sherman. Messuages, &c., near Newgate street and St. Martin's Le Grand, London. Wife Anne to be executrix and my son in law Mr. Bezaleel Sherman and my loving kinsman Mr. Richard Bowater to be overseers.

Admon, de bonis non was granted 1 June 1705 to Richard Lawrence husband and administrator of Dorothy Lawrence als Norton deceased, while she lived a daughter, &c., of the deceased, Anne Norton the relict being also defunct.

Lloyd, 122.

Hussey.

Christopher Hussey of London, of the parish of St. Martin's in the Fields, gent, 30 August 1611; proved 16 October 1611. To my brother Richard Hussie, apprentice in London, in the parish of St. Andrew's, Holborne, four score pounds, to be paid unto him 15 April 1623 as appeareth upon a pair of Indentures indented between Ellis Elsse of Westoning in the County of Bedford, yeoman, and myself. To my sister Anne Hussie, of Westoning aforesaid, twenty pounds, to be paid in the same manner and at the aforesaid time as the former legacy. I give unto John Hussie, my wife's son, ten pounds upon a bond payable by the said Ellis Elsse, at the day and time specified. I give unto my god daughter Jane Brede six pounds, and four pounds unto the rest of John Brede's children, to be equally divided amongst them, which sum of six pounds and four pounds is to be paid unto them, according to the aforesaid payments, at the end and term of years before named. The residue to my wife Anne, whom I do make my sole executrix. And I do ordain my loving friend John Breede of Westonning overseer.

Wit: Nichas Dannell the writer, vicar of Alton, Humfrey Kempe.

Then follows a list of "Debtes owing unto Mr. Hussye" and "Debtes that I owe." The former seem to be connected with the court, such as "Richard Hayles a Harbinger to ye King," "Davie Bull grome of the Chamber," "Raffe Smithe in ordinary of ye Guard," "Due unto me from his Ma^ty^ for my bill of sicknes," "One other bill from his Maiestie." "It. for makinge ready of Hampton Court £^s^. It. for makinge ready for his Matie at Salesbury £iii vi^s^ viii^d^. It. for makinge ready ffanneham £xvi xvi^s^ viii^d^."

"I pray you goodman Brede deliver those writinges which y^u^ haue of myne in youre Custodye unto my wife at what tyme soeuer she shall send for them or demaund them."

Wood, 84.

Sewall.

Walter Compton of Hartpurye in the County of the City of Gloucester, Esq., 9 October 1584; proved 3 August 1585. To be buried in the church of Bysseley where my father and mother were buried. My farm of Aveninge. Henry Compton, son of my son William. My daughters Dorothy and Anne Compton at seventeen. To the said Henry Compton and Johanne his wife and the longest liver of them my one half of the parsonage of Bysseley and all mine estate, interest and term of years in and to the said moiety or one half of the said parsonage yet to come and undetermined; the other moiety or one half of the said parsonage is to come unto my cousin William Shewell according to the true meaning and conclusion heretofore had and agreed upon between me and my said cousin Shewell his father, and myself or mine assigns to take no benefit of that moiety or half by way of survivor. Certain lands in the parish of Mynchenhampton. Walter Williams my base son. Indenture made with Sir Walter Dennys, Knight, 20 Dec. 1st Eliz:. William Compton my son and heir apparent to be sole executor. If he refuse to pay legacies, &c., then my wife Alice to be executrix.

Brudenell, 38.

CURWEN.

THOMAS CURWEN of Sybertoft "hole of mynd and syke in body," 19 May, 1557, proved the last of July, 1557. My body to be buried in the churchyard of St. Elyn. To Elizabeth, Anne and Sabyn, to each of them a cow, four ewes and four lambs. Also to Elizabeth one hogrell, a white pan and a posnet, to Anne a brass pot and a "cawdron," and to Sabayne a brass pot, a little pan and six shillings eight pence. To Margaret a yearling calf and to her child a ewe and a lamb. Other bequests to the daughters. To Margeret my daughter's child a weaning calf. The residue to Henry my son whom I make my executor. I constitute and make Robert Dawes and Edward Jenson my overseers. These being witness Sr. John Lewyn my ghostly father vicar there and Thomas Chapman, with other.

Ateste Hilliard Veren Cler

Essex County Court Papers, Vol. XXXVII, leaf 124.

To ye Honoured County Court, held at Ipswich on ye 31: of March 1685, ye claime of Samuel Gardner Senr to part of ye Estate—Capt. George Corwin deceassed dyed possessed of with ye Reasons of his Claim in behalfe of five Children he haus liveing by Mary one of ye two daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth Corwin deceased which shee had by a former husboun Mr. John White & brought with her to & were brought up by Capt. George Corwin abovesd.

1 Reason is, because yt it is a thing known & owned that Capt. Corwin abovesd brought no Estate or so little as may be called none with him in marriage to Elizabeth abovesd & that what estate they then had came by her & was as I have herd about foure hundred pounds.

2ly because yt Mrs. Elizabeth Corwin abovesd tould me about ye time of my marriage with Mary abovesd that shee had reserved no certain sumb for her daughters as their portions, but had by agreement committed all into her husbands hands in thier behalf to run all adventures with the estate so yt if all were lost they could claim nothing & that a reasonable advance in case of increase was by agreement thier dew.

3ly becaus as the estate came by her & what she brought was the root from which ye rest have grown so what increas there was to the estate was in the time of her life & she a help therein.

4ly my father Captain George Corwin did promise me upon marriage that he would doe as much for & make me & my wife every way equal with Samuel Andrew & his wife who married the other sister which is yet to be done, there being above one hundred pounds as is well known given in a wedding dinner more to them than to us & I was then promised it should be made up in another way, there being also one of his children brought up from 1 year ould for him which could not cost less than 3 or 4 Score pounds there being no such thing done for me I haveing 150li at least lesse than he.

5ly my father Corwin have told me that he would make up what was wanting to my children at his decease but was prevented & is still dew to them & him who humbly requesteth this honoured Court will do him right herein: & for proof of what is asserted I can and will make oath when called thereto: 1: 2: 1685. by

Samuel Gardner.

Herbert.

Thomas Harberd of Northampton, 13 November 1587 (probate act not registered). To Alice my wife the house I now dwell in during her life &c. the house to son William and his lawfully begotten heirs, and for want of them to my son Thomas, and so from one to another. To sons Thomas and John six pounds thirteen shillings and four pence each. To daughter Grace and Margaret Harberd the same. Wife Alice to be executrix and William Burrowe and Abraham Ventris to be overseers.

Arch. Northampton, 1st Series, Book V, folio 307.

The widow Alice Harberd of St. Mary's Northampton declared her nuncupative will upon New Year's Day, the first of January 1588/9. She willed that Mr Marshe, Mr Coles, Mr. Burrow and Abraham Ventris should take her children, all her goods and lands whatsoever, and should use and bestow the same to the use of her children according to their discretion &c. Proved 23 January 1588/9.

Arch. Northampton 1st Series, Book V, folio 316.

John Harbeart, one of the Aldermen of the town of Northampton, 28 December 1641, proved 27 February 1644. To my son Samuel all the house that I now dwell in, being part of the New Rents, so-called, and purchased, one part of Mr Pots and the other part of Mr. Roger Pendleton. Also I give him one tenement purchased of John Batisen, now in the occupation of Tho: Houghton, and one close or orchard in St. Edmond's End, one part purchased of Mr. Taby Caldwell and the other of Mr. Henry Neale; my wife Susanna to enjoy the rents &c. thence arising, for her life, towards her maintenance, and then to come to Samuel, he to pay forty pounds to my daughter Susanna, as part of her portion, as soon as the land comes into his hand and three score pounds more when she is one and twenty years of age, and to my son Jeremiah one hundred pounds at his age of one and twenty years, and to my son Daniel four score pounds at two and twenty, and to my son William four score pounds at twenty two. And for the raising of these monies to be paid to Susanna, Jeremiah, Daniel and William I leave the tenement

I bought of the Corporation of Northampton, being the corner house butting upon the Hind (?) on the North side and the tenement of Widow Smith on the West side and the Barly Hill on the East side and the tenement bought of John Batisen on the South side, and one workhouse or stable and the garden that I purchased of Mr. Raphael Humphry adjoining to Mr. Flint's on the West side and the house ef Mr. Humphrey in the possession of Mr. Kimball on the East side, to be sold by my executrix with the advice of Will. Selby and John Selby whom I leave my overseers. If all these my children die without heirs then to go to my son John Harbert and my daughter Elizabeth Curwin equally divided and their heirs. My son John shall have twenty shillings within three months after my death. To my daughter Elizabeth Curwines children twenty shillings apiece, named Elizabeth, Mary and Samuel. All my other goods &c. I bequeath unto my wife Susanna Harbert whom I make my full executrix.

In a codicil, added 20 January 1643, he speaks of his son William being dead.

Arch. Northampton 3d Series, Book B, folio 78.

Daniel Herbert of the town of Northampton, draper, 9 November 1696, proved 23 February 1702/3. To my nephew John Herbert, of the said town, hosier and his heirs &c all that messuage or tenement in the said town wherein he doth now dwell (a messuage in the posssession of Robert Ives gent. and mayor of the town being on the East side thereof); also my farm in Burton Latimer, called Cabell's farm &c. To his daughter Rachel Herbert five pounds, to be laid out in a piece of plate for her. To Mary Watts, daughter of Thomas Watts of Wootton, gent^{t}, forty pounds. To Joseph, Martha, Elizabeth, Rebecca and Dorcas Watts, five other of his children, twenty pounds each. To Elizabeth Plimpton, daughter of Mrs Dorothy Plimpton of London, fifty pounds. To Thomas and Edward Winter sons of John Winter of Hardingston yeoman. To Epentus Wills son of Epenetus Wills and Sarah his wife, which Sarah was daughter of Bartholomew Higgins late of Preston Davery, yeoman. Twenty pounds to be laid out in the purchase of a tenement in Northampton for the use of John Jackson, shoemaker and Sarah his wife, for their lives, and afterwards for their son John Jackson and his heirs and assigns forever. To the poor of Northampton, ten pounds, to be laid out in two penny wheaten bread and distributed amongst them the poor of All Saints to have the greatest share. To my nephew Zachariah Herbert my messuage wherein I now dwell being a corner house at the North end of a Street called the Drapery, on the East side thereof next the Market Hill, and my farm at Burton Latimer's called Blundell's farm, he to pay out of the rents of said farm at the end of three years after my decease, to the then mayor and to the Deputy Recorder of the town and to the four several ministers of the four several parishes ten pounds to be laid out in setting forth three or four boys apprentices to some trade. And then they shall forbear to set forth any more boys untill they shall have raised enough to give to every boy ten pounds at the expiration of his apprenticeship. And my nephew shall after the third year &c. pay yearly to the said trustees the sum of ten pounds &c., my own relations to be preferred and next to them the poor relations of my late wife, Elizabeth and after them, sons of poor inhabitants of Northampton.

Arch. Northampton 2d Series, Book X, folio 300.

DOWNING.

GEORGE DOWNING of Beccles in Suffolk, 20 December 1561, proved 26 June 1564. My body to be buried in the churchyard of Beccles. I will that Cicely my wife shall have all those my two houses that I dwell in, lying and being in Beccles, which I late purchased of John Thorne departed, to hold the term of her natural life, she keeping herself sole and unmarried. After her death I give the said two houses to Barnabe Downing my son, if of the age of twenty five years at the day of the departing of the said Cicely, or else the supervisors of my will shall have the setting and letting of the said two houses from the day of her departing until the said Barnabe shall accomplish the said age. In case of his death then to my son John Downing, at the same age; next to my son George Downing, at the same age; next to my son William, at the same age; and lastly to my next heir male. To my son John twenty pounds at age of twenty five. The same to my son George. And I will that my wife shall keep the said John and George unto the Grammar School till they have learned their grammar, if their capacity will serve them. And that done, if, "hit" shall be thought good by my said wife, and the supervisors of this my testament, I will that their legacies before bequeathed unto them by this my testament shall be bestowed upon them in keeping of them at the University of Cambridge, and not otherwise to be paid unto them. To my daughter Margaret Downing twenty pounds at the age of twenty one. To my son Barnabe four score pounds, and so much of my household stuff as shall amount unto the sum of twenty pounds,—this after the departing of the said Cicely my wife if she keep herself sole and unmarried. To my son William five marks at the age of twenty one. The residue to my wife Cislie whom I ordain and make the executrix of this my testament and last will. And the supervisors. I ordain and make my well beloved cousin Robert Downing of All Saints Southelmham, Richard Crampton of Norwich.

Cope, 59.

[The beginning of the sixteen pages of this folio 59 of register Cope is the will of William Shakespeare, gentlemen, of Shalford on Avon, the parchment being loose and falling out of the book, as if some person had attempted to steal Shakespeare's will. I came across this registering in due course last year while preparing the next instalment (1605-1619) of the Calendar of the Prerogative Court of Canterbury for the British Record Society, a particularly troublesome but particularly interesting section, containing the wills of so many famous Elizabethians besides Shakespeare. The copy of Shakespeare's will shown to the public at Somerset House, is well known, is of course the original document in four sheets, containing his signature at the bottom of each sheet.—L. W.]
